L'huile de palme rouge est une huile extraite de la pulpe des fruits du palmier à huile (Elaeis Guineensis), originaire de l'Afrique de l'Ouest. C'est aussi un support essentiel de la cuisine africaine. L'huile de palme brute est le produit végétal le plus riche en bêta-carotène, ce qui lui donne une teinte rouge orangée selon sa concentration en carotène. La belle nuance rouge de cette huile est le résultat de sa teneur extrêmement élevée de carotènes. L'huile de palme rouge est une source naturelle fortement riche en vitamine A.

L'huile de palme rouge est excellent pour la friture, sauté, les casseroles, les soupes, les sauces, pâtisserie et à tous vos besoins de cuisson. La teinte rouge exotique va apporter une vie à vos plats.
